The Story of Korean Ginseng

Botanically, ginseng matures in its sixth year.
Ginseng is a mysterious plant that produces one leaf a year; one may find two leaves on a two-year-old ginseng and six leaves on a six-year-old ginseng, but no more leaves are produced after that. Optimal amount of active ingredients that are good for our health are found in ginseng that has reached six years of age. There is a modern research result that 6-year-old ginseng has a higher active ingredient than 4-year-old ginseng.
Just as we adhere to our principles on using the best ingredients, we adhere to the principle of using only 6-year-old Korean ginseng in Hansamin products.

6-year-old Korean ginseng contains higher levels of saponins, active ingredients that are beneficial to our bodies, than other ginsengs, and is an example that proves its excellent benefits.

Hansamin Korean Ginseng (Red Ginseng)

Fresh ginseng refers to the harvested, unprocessed ginseng. Its high water content makes it difficult to store for more than a weak. Red ginseng is produced by carefully selecting fresh ginseng and steam drying it until it reaches a moisture content of less than 15%, and it can be stored for more than 10 years. Hansamin processes fresh ginseng using traditional methods to produce the highest-quality red ginseng.

Red Ginseng Processing Procedure

1 Washing
washes fresh ginseng thoroughly with water

2 Steaming
steams and cooks washed ginseng in a steamer

3 Air-drying
air-dries the steamed ginseng with sunlight in an open drying area

4 Shaping
trims the shapes of dried red ginseng

5 Appearance sorting sorts red ginseng into grades by visually grading the appearance

6 Tissue sorting verifies the inner tissues with infrared fluoroscope

7 Weight sorting weighs the red ginseng to sort them according to their sizes

8 Wet-pressing humidifies the red ginsengs to soften them, then presses and vacuum-packs them

9 Boxing
puts red ginseng in wood boxes and wraps with hanji paper

10 Can packaging
puts wooden boxes and instructions together into the cans and seals the cans.
